

Villages at Staunton Nears Completion

Reported by Tamara Hinton
June 28, 2007

A massive renovation project in Staunton is taking shape.

The work is nearly complete on what's called The Bindery. It's the first restored building of a major development project called the Villages at Staunton, which was once a mental hospital and a state prison.

This four-story structure will boast 19 condos, including a penthouse. The prices range from $200,000 to $700,000.

They are expected to be completed by late September.